

ABSTRACT

HELEN LORENSYA

Burnout of Social Caring Institution Nurse for Multiple Disability Child (Henny E. Wirawan, M. Hum., Psi.); Undergraduate Program in Psychology, Tarumanagara University. (83 pages + i+viii, R1-R3, Appdx 1-Appdx 9).

This study focus is how burnout felt by nurse in social caring institution for multiple disability child. Nurse as supported profession often feel burnout as caused by excessive workload. Such case that felt by nurse which cares multiple disability child. Workload and work demand often become problem which appear burnout. Such case is added by less balance between workload and nurse income that relative small and inadequate facilities. Result of study shows that burnout which felt subject because there is low control to job. Subject less control their task which they must done. Such case is caused by limited in their education and knowledge background about nursing for multiple disability child. This study using interview technique. This study is conducted from November 2007 until April 2008. Subject of this study amount five persons. Such fifth of subjects felt burnout during work as nurse for multiple disability child.

Keyword: Nurse, multiple disability child, burnout.