

ABSTRACT

Medya

Difference Intension of aggression based attachment style in girls who live in orphanages. (Dra. Fransisca I. R. D., M.Si & Riana Sahrani, M. Si., Psi.); Bachelor Degree, Faculty of Psychology, Tarumanagara University.

The objective of this research is to know whether there are any differences intensions of aggression based on attachment styles in girls who live in orphanages. These researches based on interaction between people that make attachment styles. Differences in attachment styles (secure attachment, fearful-avoidant attachment, preoccupied attachment, and dismissing attachment) make differences in aggression. Aggression in insecure attachment styles (fearful-avoidant attachment, preoccupied attachment, and dismissing attachment) is higher than aggression in secure attachment style. Aggression in orphanage is verbal aggression like humiliate other people. Aggression is cause by differences assumption or differences view, and sometimes joking can make aggression in orphanage. This research use one-way ANOVA, and the result shows that there is no significant difference of aggression based on attachment styles in girls who live in orphanages with significance 0.179, $p > 0.05$.

Key words: aggression, attachment styles, orphanage