

ABSTRACT

Donny Putra Pratama (705090108)

Social Prejudice role and social identity towards Adolescent Intention of Aggression Motorbike Gank; (Dr. Fransisca Iriani, M.Si.); Undergraduate Program in Psychology. Tarumanagara University, (i-xii, 65 pages, R1–R3; Appdx 1-102)

Intention of aggression is an attitude of wanting to hurt others, physically or psychologically to express negative feeling's. Aggressive behavior is divided into two, which is prejudice social role and identity social. Social prejudice is a negative evaluation of one group or someone based on the person in the group. Social identity is knowledge and feeling's of an individual towards specified group congruency that has significant emotion and value as an individual in the group. The purpose of this research is to examine prejudice social role and social identity towards adolescent intension of aggression motorbike gank. This research is using quantitative method with regression and multiple regression technique.. The participant are 150 people with purposive sampling technique. The result of this research indicate's that social prejudice and social identity has a significant role towards intention aggression. Social identity has more role towards intention of aggression shown on the beta score .347, compared with social prejudice with beta score .197. Identity social role and social prejudice as much as 21.8 percent towards intention. There are also identity social role towards social prejudice.

Keywords: intention of aggression, social prejudice, social identity, adolescent, motorbike gank.