

ABSTRACT

Galuh Laksana Putri (705130103)

A Relationship between Coping and Resilience to the Youth Generation of Cina Benteng in Sewan-Tangerang; Meike Kurniawati, S.Psi., MM. & Yeni Anna Appulembang, M.A., Psi. Bachelor Degree of Psychology, Tarumanagara University, (i-xiv; 71 pages, P1-P5, L1-L54)

Adolescence is a period where turmoil and emotions is hard to control. Likewise, the youth generation of Cina Benteng community also has their own problems, such as getting insulted because they are descendants of Cina Benteng, being discriminated, disliked by people outside of his ethnicity, getting mocked because they do not have fair skin and slanted eyes, and underestimated. Therefore, not only does youth generation of Cina Benteng face internal problems, but they also face problems that come from their surroundings.

Consequently, Cina Benteng teenagers have the ability to overcome problems which is called coping. This ability needs to be possessed by Cina Benteng teenagers in order to survive, rise and adapt to difficult situation which is called resilience.

This study aims to examine the relationship between coping and resilience in the youth generation of Cina Benteng in Sewan-Tangerang. The research involved 395 male and female adolescents of Cina Benteng ethnicity. The study uses quantitative method with purposive sampling. The result shows that there is not any connection between coping and resilience in Cina Benteng teenagers in Sewan-Tangerang with correlation coefficient value  $r = 0,061$ ;  $P > 0.05$ .

Keywords: adolescent, problems of Cina Benteng teenagers, coping, resilience.