

ABSTRACT

Ingrid (705140021)

Self-Disclosure's Images on Early Adult Woman who had been Cheated; Agoes Dariyo, M.Si., Psi.; Sandi Kartasasmita, M.Psi., Psikoterapis., Psikolog., QIA; Undergraduate Program in Psychology, Tarumanagara University, (i-xi; 86 halaman; P1-P3; L1-L21)

Infidelity is one of the causes of divorce. Research conducted by Glass and Staeheli (2003) state that men do more infidelity than women. It will make a negative impact on all aspects of a woman's life as a wife. One of the impacts that can occur is the wife will be closed with others (Zalafi, 2015). The purpose of this research is to look self-disclosure's image on early adult woman who had been cheated. This research use qualitative method and the retrieval of the data taken with observation and interview method with four subject. This research use criterion sampling as a sampling technique. The criteria of the subject is a woman aged 20 – 40, already married, and had been cheated by her husband. Research results show that all four subjects managed to do self-disclosure about the problem of infidelity committed by their husband. But from all four subjects, there is one subject who did not fulfill one of self-disclosure's dimention.

Key words : Self-Disclosure, Infidelity