

Abstract

Quantity surveyor is a professional in construction industry and generally provide service for developer, government, investor, architect and contractor. Quantity surveyor usually involved in estimation, cost planning, procurement management, contract administration, feasibility study and other activity that related with financial operation of property or construction. The extent of quantity surveyor's scope of work have to widen the knowledge of quantity surveying method to be learned more detailed, especially one that related with quantity surveying method in quantification of work item. In this thesis, quantity surveying method is applied to project apartment ABC. Observation result processed into data that can be used as reference for interview with contractor and consultant quantity surveyor. In this research analysis and discussion of observation data are compared with interview results. Analysis of observation and interview result become basis to find out quantity surveying method which appropriate to be used in construction project.

Keywords: Quantity surveying method, Quantity surveyor, Quantification of work item.