Intro

Guidelines for Reviewers of PJIH in conducting peer-review

Padjajaran Journal of Law is expected to adopt a positive, impartial, critical attitude toward the manuscript under review to promote effective, accurate, and relevant scientific communication. Please consider the following aspects when reviewing a manuscript:

1. Significance to the target scientific community.
2. Originality.
3. Adequacy of title and abstract.
4. Appropriateness of the approach.
5. Clear introduction that expresses the gap as the primary research.
6. Adherence to correct scientific nomenclature.
7. Appropriate literature citations.
8. The excellent structure of the writing.
9. Relevance of discussion.
10. Appropriateness of supporting data, such as figures and tables.
11. The soundness of conclusions and interpretation.

You are not required to correct style, syntax, or grammar deficiencies, but any help you can give in clarifying meaning will be appreciated. In particular, point out scientific jargon, misspellings of legal terms, and use of outmoded terminology or incorrect nomenclature.

Your criticisms, arguments, and suggestions concerning the paper will benefit the editor and the author if they are carefully documented. Do not make dogmatic, dismissive statements, particularly about the novelty of the work. Substantiate your statements. The editor gratefully receives the reviewer's recommendations; however, since editorial decisions are usually based on evaluations from several sources, reviewers should not expect the editor to honor every suggestion.
